

I am opposed to the proposed rules that would limit the dissemination of faxes. This type of communication, while analogous to "telemarketing" in some respects, faxes in way invades or distracts business recipients in the same way unwanted telephone calls do to individual consumers.